

Supply Chain & Inventory Analysis – Summary of Insights

Business Performance

- The company generated a total revenue of ₹3.08 Billion and a total profit of ₹612.92 Million from 2.22 Million units sold.
- The average shipping time across all orders was 5.50 days.

Product Performance

- Camera was the most profitable product, followed by Laptop and Fan.
- The top-selling products contributed significantly to overall revenue and profit generation.

Inventory Analysis

- Approximately 79.9% of products were categorized as In Stock.
- Around 20.1% of products were identified as Understock, indicating potential replenishment requirements.

Category Performance

- Fashion generated the highest revenue among all categories.
- Revenue and profit distribution across categories remained relatively balanced, reducing dependence on a single product category.

Supplier Performance

- Supplier C recorded the lowest average shipping time, indicating better delivery efficiency.
- Supplier E showed the highest average shipping time and may require monitoring for delivery improvements.

Warehouse Performance

- Bangalore generated the highest revenue among all warehouse locations.
- Revenue contribution from all warehouses was relatively balanced, indicating efficient geographical distribution of inventory.

Delivery Analysis

- Order distribution remained fairly consistent across different shipping durations.
- No significant concentration of delays was observed within the supply chain.

Recommendations

- Improve inventory planning for understocked products to minimize stockout risks.
- Continuously monitor supplier delivery performance to improve operational efficiency.
- Focus on high-performing products and categories to maximize profitability.